

September 4, 2019 ODESSA TEXAS... RetroLED, LLC, one of the nation's leading innovators in fluorescent to LED solutions, announces an important development in the patent litigation between RetroLED and Principal Lighting Group LLC. On Friday, August 30, the Federal District Court for the Western District of Texas determined that several important terms found in the claims of the Principal patent US Patent No 9,311,835 were to be construed according to their plain and ordinary meaning. Now that the Court has made this determination of plain and ordinary meaning, it enhances the relevance of many of the patents and other prior art cited against the validity of the Principal patent by RetroLED. The Company looks forward to the next stage of the litigation.
